WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1913.

An Evening Echo.

Various are the inclinations of man; one desire to be considered noble; another, care nothing for high birth, but wishes to be possessed of much wealth; others long for eloquence, to persuade their audience to anything, however audacious; others, again, prefer gain to honor; no dissimilar are men. For my own part, I care for none of these, but pray for a good reputation.—CURTIS.

Miss Wilson and her fiance worship together, informs a glaring newspaper heading. Well, this is perfectly natural in the circumstances.

If the complicated and lengthy election ballot continues in vogue much longer, there will be no doubt as to the necessity for voting machines, and likely as not some one will have to invent an automatic machine to vote the voting machine.

The Parkersburg State Journal, is unquestionably one of the best daily newspapers published in West Virginia or in any other state. All editors being considered, its editorial page is always bright, sparkling, interesting and edifying. Its news is handled in the top shape with nice headlines, and if anything happens in West Virginia one can generally find an account of it in the State Journal.

In conceding that Clarksburg's bank deposits are greater than those of both Parkersburg and Huntington, the Parkersburg Sentinel says that nobody in Parkersburg is other than pleased with Clarksburg's prosperity and reminds the Telegram that there is room and business in West Virginia for all of us. As the Telegram wanted the Parkersburg and Huntington newspapers to save room for Clarksburg in making comparisons of the advantages and achievements of West Virginia cities, the Telegram hopes the Sentinel and the other newspapers concerned will keep the reminder in mind.

Household Poisons.

Another man has arisen in the middle of the night, stumbled into the bathroom, reached into the medicine cabinet and taken a poison instead of the headache remedy he sought. His ending came in the manner usual in the circumstances.

This paragraph, with a slight change or two, is taken from the Huntington Advertiser. The principal change is the elimination of the name of a certain poison. It being the Telegram's policy not to advertise schemes of self destruction or homicide. Continuing the Advertiser says:

"Unquestionably the box bore in large letters the warning, 'poison' and the imprint of a skull and cross-bones. But he was suffering acutely and probably was in the half-dazed condition that comes of tantalizing hours on the verge of sleep. And he did not turn on the light."

"Druggists are careful in complying with all the safeguards provided by the law of the sale of poisons. But the suggestion has more than once been made that poisons, especially the kind likely to be included among the drugs kept on hand in households, be fashioned or put up in packages of unusual shape so that they can instantly be identified by the sense of touch."

"This is a protection which may not be needed if ordinary caution is observed, but it seems one that it would be wise to provide."

"This is a sensible and practical suggestion though not a new one and is somewhat similar to one of the kind that has repeatedly been made by the Telegram. This newspaper believes that the people are as much at fault in bringing about mistakes in taking poisons as the pharmacists. Why keep poisons in the same cabinet or upon the same shelf in the bathroom along with other medicines? There is no sane reason why this should be done. There

WHAT OTHER EDITORS SAY

Quite a Number.

There are many of us who will see no cause for worry in the income tax.—Parkersburg Dispatch-News.

Should Be Warned.

We note that the West Virginia national guard is again ready to go to Mexico. Just in the interests of humanity, somebody should warn Huerta.—Wheeling News.

Gets the Grease.

"I hate to be a kicker, as it does not stand for peace. But the wheel that does the squeaking is the one that gets the grease."—Shannon News.

Where It Came From.

According to a new Tennessee law the owners of live stock are forbidden to run at large. The suggestion probably came from the provision in the Wheeling city charter for bi-monthly meetings of council every two weeks.—Wheeling Register.

Unique.

The Big Sandy Enterprise, published in the beautiful little city of Louisa Ky., is probably unique in the annals of journalism. It is devoted exclusively and absolutely to religion and politics.—Huntington Herald-Dispatch.

Will Be Flash.

If that league of women which is being promoted in Detroit to secure an equal division of family income between husband and wife succeeds in its purpose some men will have more spending money than they thought there was in the world since their wedding day.—Grafton Sentinel.

Granted.

Telegram, it is conceded there is a lot of money in Clarksburg, but there is a lot of money and also a lot of people in Parkersburg. And building? Well go out in the morning where there was one house the evening before and there will be another.—Parkersburg State Journal.

Scale Answers.

One Professor See offers the idea that it is possible to establish communication by wireless with other planets, but that it would require 2,000,000 years for light from the more distant stars to reach the earth. Just as we feared—when the scheme looked feasible, here it is shown that none of us will be there when answers are received to the messages we send.—Wheeling Telegraph.

Swollen Fortunes.

The rich man who does not recognize that after all he holds his wealth merely by the consent of the majority of the people, who have the power to take it away from him any time they choose, is dangerously ignorant. As a matter of fact, these swollen fortunes are accidents which we ought to take some legislative steps to correct. Not in a spirit of anarchy or of socialism, but simply as a matter of public policy, because accumulations handed down from generation to generation and constantly gathering in size and power, are a danger to the state. Every rich man who fails to recognize in a generous manner the debt he owes to the public contributes by that much to add to the feeling of unrest, and to the growth of radical ideas which in the end may prove dangerous to him and to his children.—

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Keep Her Locks Dark, Glossy, Thick.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because anybody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.—Advertisement.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES

Suffered Three Years. Used Resinol. Now Not A Pimple To Be Seen.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 27, 1912. "I had been troubled for the past three years with pimples which completely covered my face and neck. The pimples would come out faster and cause me to pick at them, feeling very uncomfortable. I tried most all kinds of facial creams, but with no effect. I tried a sample of Resinol Soap and Ointment and noticed instant relief. I bought Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment, and began the treatment. After using two jars of Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, there was not a pimple to be seen, and now my face is as smooth as if there was never a pimple on it." (Signed) Albert Greenburg, 4167 Frankford Ave.

For eighteen years Resinol has been a favorite doctor's prescription and household remedy for itching troubles, skin eruptions, dandruff, red, rough faces and hands, sores, piles, etc. Stops itching instantly. Sold by all druggists, Resinol Soap, 25c. Ointment, 50c and $1.00, but you can try them without cost—just write for liberal samples to Dept. 18-M, Resinol Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

Buying Furs? A Warning!

There are more kinds of ways of fooling people about furs than there are animals in America. There is only one sure protection in fur buying and that is to consult a merchant in whom you have confidence and to rely on his word.

To begin with you can well be prejudiced in favor of the merchants who advertise in live papers like THE DAILY TELEGRAM.

They believe in themselves or they wouldn't advertise. The newspaper believes in them or it wouldn't print their advertisements.

Before choosing your furs read the advertising carefully. See what your merchants have to say. Weigh their claims and decide for yourself.

But whatever the particular reason or reasons which will govern your choice—the fact that a merchant's confidence and reputation permits him to come straight out in public day after day, and ask for your patronage is mighty good evidence in his favor.
